THE SUBURBAN.

Raceland Wins the Event of the Season.

Terra Cotta Comes in Second---Gorgo Takes Third Place.

Thirty Thousand People Witness the Great Race.

The Winner's Brilliant Record---Other Turf Events---The Day at St. Louis and Kansas City.

By Telegraph to The Times.

NEW YORK, June 18.—[By the Associated Press.] The greatest American racing event of the year was determined this afternoon at the Sheepshead Bay track. A northeast wind blew almost a gale over the course this afternoon, and the 30,000 people who were present found overcoats exceedingly comfortable. The great Suburban was the fourth event on the card, and through the three preceding races, the impatience of the throng was scarcely held in check by the interest in the running they witnessed. The hour had been fixed at 4:20 p.m., but as soon as the preceding race was run, there was a rush to the betting shed to invest in the Suburban. Soon the crowd became so great that it was only by pushing and shoving that the betters could get near enough the book-makers to hand them their money. Most of the betters acted like crazy men in their anxiety to back their favorite. The track by this time had dried out finely, and although damp underneath, was dusty on top, it was a trifle lumpy, but it was far better than the average Suburban track.

THE GREAT EVENT.

When the Suburban was called the horses pranced around the post in a restless way. Volunteer kicked Terra Cotta slightly, and then Gorgo gave Elkwood a slight kick. At the second attempt they got away, with Gorgo in the lead, Elkwood, Eurus and Badge next, with the quarter post Volunteer led by a length, Gorgo was second, a length and a half before Bella, with Badge, Eurus, Brian Boru, Terra Cotta and Elkwood next. Coming up the backstretch Gorgo went to the front, and soon had a lead of two lengths from Eurus. Second, Gorgo led until they were well into the homestretch, with Raceland next. On they came like a whirlwind. As they entered the homestretch Gorgo was still in lead, "Now watch the Snapper draw the whip," said one, as Terra Cotta came with a grand rush. He did not. Amid the plaudits of 10,000 throats Raceland dashed past the judges' stand an easy winner by a length and a half in 2:09 4-5. Terra Cotta second, was half a length before Gorgo, third. Eurus, Brian Boru, Badge, Elkwood, Volunteer and Bella B., who ran wide, clear out of the track, the upper turn, followed as named. Raceland pulled up very lame.

RACELAND'S RECORD.

Raceland is a bay gelding, 4 years old, by Billet, dam [illegible]. He was purchased by Joe Ullman, of St. Louis, a bookmaker, as a [illegible] was first time three times, second once and unplaced twice. He met and defeated all the best youngsters of his age in the country and placed to the credit of his owner $18,500. After the race at Washington, where Raceland defeated Emperor of Norfolk in the Arlington stakes in the best time ever made on the Ivy City track, August Belmont bought him for $17,500.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

The following is the summary of the day's races:

Mining Engineers' Convention.

DENVER (Colo.), June 18.—A convention of the American Institute of Mining Engineers will commence here tomorrow. There are now nearly 200 delegates in the city. The convention will be in session at Denver on Wednesday and Thursday. An excursion will then be taken to the various mining camps of the State, and a third meeting will be held in Aspen the last of the week.

A Woman's Revenge.

SARDIS (Miss.), June 18.—John Williams was shot and fatally wounded on Sunday at Emery Church by Mrs. Hattie Campbell. The shooting occurred immediately after religious services. Williams died the following morning. The provocation was a charge by Williams that he had criminal intercourse with Mrs. Campbell, upon which statement a bill for divorce is pending.

A Disastrous Downpour.

WATERTOWN (Dak.), June 18.—The heaviest rainfall for years occurred this afternoon. For over two hours rain poured in torrents, flooding cellars and causing much damage to merchandise. The heaviest loss will fall on the waterworks company, by the caving in of water mains and connections. Rain is still falling, although not so heavily.

Wheat and Hay Burned.

FRESNO, June 18.—A fire south of town burned 40 acres of wheat and 20 tons of hay, partially insured.

DOWN AN EMBANKMENT.

A Train Wrecked—Two Men Killed —Many Wounded.

BIRMINGHAM (Ala.), June 18.—[By the Associated Press.] A railroad wreck, causing the death of two men and the injury of about one hundred others, occurred at the Pratt mines this morning. On the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company's road that leads from town out to slope No. 2, every morning a train is run from the company's office in town out to the mines to accommodate miners and others who work at the mines. The train takes up men along the road at nearly every house and crossing. Before it reaches the mines it generally has between 200 and 300 on board. This morning the train consisted of three passenger coaches, several ore cars and one or two cabooses. The engine was attached to the end of the train, and was pushing the cars forward. While running at the rate of 10 miles an hour the train struck a cow lying on the track, and six cars were hurled down an embankment. Walter Bearty and Henry McCauley, carpenters, were killed and nearly 100 men injured, some of them having limbs broken. None of the injured will die.

Another Apache Story Denied.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—The following telegram was received by Adjt.-Gen. Kelton this morning from Gen. Miles at San Francisco:

"The following was received from the commanding officer of the Department of Arizona:

"'Referring to the recent reports in the newspapers regarding the alleged killing of Mexicans by Indians in Sonora, 300 miles south of the international line, I am advised by Gov. Torres that after a full investigation made by him, he finds that there is no truth whatever in the report.'"

THE "ANTIS" WIN.

PROHIBITION BADLY BEATEN IN PENNSYLVANIA.

The Third Party People Make a Hard Fight—Women Active at the Polls—Children Also Help.

By Telegraph to The Times.

PHILADELPHIA, June 18.—[By the Associated Press.] Voting on the prohibition amendment took place today. There was a notable absence of women from the polls and the distribution of ice water and sandwiches was not so profuse as anticipated. In some portions of the city the Prohibition folks utilized Sunday-school children to distribute cold-water tickets.

Returns from the election are just beginning to come in. Bradford county gives 1200 majority for the prohibition amendment and about 500 against the poll-tax amendment.

Juniata county gives 150 majority against the prohibition amendment and 200 majority against the poll-tax amendment.

The following majorities for and against the prohibition amendment have been received:

	For.	Ag'st.
Allegheny county	13,000	....
Berks county	....	20,000
Chester county	2800	....
Clearfield county	1500	....
Northampton county	....	1,000
Reading city	....	6,700
Wayne county	....	400
Warren county	400	....
Bedford county	....	600
Fulton county	....	400
Indiana county	2500	....
Allegheny county	....	21,500
Jefferson county	1700	....
Mifflin county	950	....
Monroe county	....	1,500
Luzerne county	....	2,200
Center county	1750	....
Chester city	....	500

Returns from 44 out of 67 counties show a majority against the prohibition amendment of 169,454. Full returns from the whole State will probably raise the figure to nearly 200,000.

AN IMMENSE VOTE POLLED.

PITTSBURGH (Pa.), June 18.—Today's election on the prohibitory amendment was never equalled for strange sights and sounds. The streets were filled all day with amused crowds watching the brass bands of the Antis and Juneville glee clubs of the Prohibitionists. Everyone seemed in good humor, and the election was freer from fights than any election before known. The vote in Allegheny county is without precedent for a special election and rivals the vote at any general election.

THE AMENDMENT LOST.

Conservative politicians say the majority against the amendment will reach 25,000. Returns received from the surrounding counties are estimated as follows:

	For.	Ag'st.
Fayette county	3200	....
Forest county	350	....
Beaver county	1500	....
Huntington county	1000	....
Westmoreland county	500	....
Butler county	2500	....
McKean county	500	....
Washington county	....	2000
Crawford county	3500	....
Blair county	3500	....
Venango county	3800	....
Greene county	400	....

JOHNSTOWN (Pa.), June 18.—Prohibition was carried here today by a majority of three votes. The votes cast were 446 for and 443 against the amendment.

LANCASTER (Pa.), June 18.—This county gives 3349 majority against the prohibition amendment.

PHILADELPHIA, June 18.—Returns from 64 of 67 counties of the State give a majority of 164,165 against the prohibition amendment.

A Girl Murdered.

GRASS VALLEY, June 18.—Last evening about 6 o'clock Flossie Lord, daughter of James H. Lord, was found dead on the porch of the family residence, two miles west of Grass Valley. She was shot through the head, the ball going into the right temple and lodging under the skin on the left side. A pistol was found near the body with two empty chambers. The girl's age was 16 years. Deceased was in town in the afternoon, and in good spirits. The inquest is in progress this afternoon.

The developments go to show that the girl was foully murdered.

The English Grain Trade.

LONDON, June 18.—The Mark Lane Express says: "Sales of English wheat during the past week were 41,765 quarters at 28s 4d. Off-coast trade has been slow since Whitsuntide. A sale of California wheat at 33s 4½d indicates steadiness. Much English wheat is offered under 30s. Russian is 18. Indian 6d and American red 3d dearer. Flour is dull. May arrivals of Chilian and Californian have gone to consumers."

California Fruit at Chicago.

CHICAGO, June 18. — Porter Bros. & Co. sold two carloads of fruit today as follows: Plums, $3.70 to $3; apricots, 85 to 55 cents; peaches, $1.05 to 30 cents; cherries, 60 to 50 cents; Bartlett pears, $4.50. The peaches and cherries were in very bad order.

THREE HUNDRED LIVES IN PERIL.

NORFOLK (Va.), June 18.—The training ship Constellation, with the Annapolis cadets aboard, and which went aground tonight a mile northwest of Cape Henry, is in charge of Commander Harrington and Navigating Officer Lowe. Three hundred people are on board. The Baker Salvage Company has sent a vessel to her assistance.

Intelligence from the Constellation at 11:30 o'clock tonight is to the effect that she is 300 yards from the shore and drifting in. The Captain of the life-saving station, near Cape Henry, with his crew, has gotten

OLD MAN BANTA.

THE TESTIMONY OF CONTESTANTS FINISHED

And the Defense States What it Proposes to Prove—The Old Man as Shrewd on a Bargain as Any body—Witnesses for the Defense.

If the late Isaac Banta of Pasadena had laid awake nights planning how to set his family by the ears after his death, he could not have hit upon a more perfect plan than he did. For several days past his widow and one daughter have been facing his son-in-law, William Pierce, and another daughter, in Judge Clark's courtroom, heaping mental anathemas on each other's heads. Mrs. Banta, in attempting to prevent the probate of the will by which William Pierce was given the entire management of the estate, has been obliged to draw the curtain aside from the private life of her late husband, with whom she lived for 40 years. She has testified, like a host of witnesses, to his dissipated habits, and that his mind was unsound. She has described, with painful details, the abuse which she claims followed her all the days of her married life with Isaac Banta.

The testimony for the contestants was finished yesterday morning by the conclusion of the cross-examination of Mrs. Banta and the testimony of Mattie Banta. The will of the deceased and deed of separation, by which Mrs. Banta relinquished her right to any interest in the estate for $25,000 and several mortgages, were read by counsel.

Mrs. Banta's cross-examination was taken up at the point when she consulted Mr. Magee in Pasadena about her troubles. This was after she learned that Mr. Banta had executed the deed to William Pierce, giving him the management of the estate. She testified:

"When I went to see Mr. Magee, Mrs. Pierce was not with me. She went once with me, but Mr. Magee was not home. She was not with me when I consulted Mr. Magee about a separation. My husband was so cross to me that I could not live with him. The deeds for our property were in Mr. Banta's name, but we had both worked for it. Mr. Banta went to the mines in 1887 with a man named Charley Starr. He came back with them. We were living on Union street at the time. There was a good room prepared for Mr. Banta—the best in the house. There was a small room, with a lounge in it, he used as a smoking room. He never slept in it. When he slept in the house he occupied a bed-lounge in the dining-room, because the other rooms were not papered yet. I slept in the little room several nights, because I had to get up and make his tea. That was in December, 1887. I never swore at my husband or called him an 'old devil.' I don't think I ever told Mr. Gilgore that I was 'glad to get rid of the old devil.' I had trouble once in Ohio when Mr. Banta struck me with a club. It was somewhere between 1858 and 1882. I cannot fix the time. I did not call at Pierce's house often, because they treated me so mean. I have not been on friendly or intimate terms with Mr. Pierce since November, 1887."

Mr. White presented and read a will made by Isaac Banta in 1878, by which he provided for the division of his estate. In it he stipulated that [illegible] Mrs. Banta certain properties in lieu of her dower, and a proportionate share of his real estate to each of his children. The will was executed in Ohio.

Mrs. Banta did not recollect the will very well. She said she could not just place it, but supposed it was all right. Mrs. Moore, her daughter, died about 11 or 12 years ago. She supposed it was Mr. Banta's signature.

Martha Banta, sworn: I live in Pasadena. I am 16. I remember when Dr. Deacon visited father on Union street. Father for a few days before was very violent. He would say Pierce told him "Mother wanted a guardian over the old man." He swore, and—well, I don't know all he did say. He was under the influence of liquor a great deal of the time. Mother tried to restrain him. She would go over half way to the saloon and try to get him not to go. A little before the deed of trust was made he would take some old forks we had and tell us to fasten down the window shade, as he was afraid Will Pierce would shoot him. The last time father was at home on Fair Oaks avenue was on Sunday. He was drunk. He was there on Saturday, and was drunk most of the time.

On cross-examination the girl, who is small for her age and very pale and delicate-looking, became very much confused, and was tangled on dates of occurrences she had testified to. She was nervous and seemed unnerved by the ordeal of testifying. She was soon dismissed, however, after a few questions had been put to her.

This closed the case for the contestants, and counsel on the other side conferred for several minutes before beginning their case. Mr. White then made a brief statement of what proof they would introduce, showing that the hot shot poured in by the contestants will be returned with interest.

Mr. White said that he expected to show by reputable citizens that Isaac Banta was far from being a demented man, and had a sharp, acute and vigorous business mind. He would show by reputable business men of Pasadena, that Mr. Banta was not only capable of transacting business, but did transact business; that he not only was not influenced by others, but was an unusually opinionated man, and hard to budge, that Pierce did not restrain him of his liberty, but urged him to go home, and the old man refused to do so, saying he could not live with his wife; that his wife and he had trouble from the time of their marriage until his death; that his wife had not always treated her husband as she professes; that Mr. Banta provided for his wife, and fixed the property so that she could not get at it; that he was perfectly sound in mind when he drew the deed and the will; that the will was based on his own ideas, and all the attorneys did was to put the ideas in legal phraseology.

He further stated that Mrs. Banta had not alleged in her complaint for divorce, brought after the deed was made, that Banta was habitually drunk, but charged him with the most beastly treatment of herself. That she did not allege his insanity in that proceeding, but afterwards took from him the agreement of separation. He said that he would urge upon the jury that Mr. Banta was of sound and disposing mind, and arranged his property as he wanted to arrange it.

The first witness was L. A. Crandall of Pasadena, who testified: I have lived in Pasadena a portion of the time from 1886, and knew Isaac Banta. When in Pasadena I met him frequently. I was away in the winter of 1886, and came back in May, 1887, and was there during the winter of 1887 and spring of 1888. I met him first in May or June, 1886, and learned he was one of the old settlers of Pasadena, and an Ohio man. I borrowed money from Mr. Banta in October, 1887. At first he said I could have it at 10 per cent. Afterwards he raised the rate. I gave him security, a mortgage on a house and lot. He signed the check for the money. I had business talks with him in connection with mining property. I talked with him on various occasions. He tried to sell the mining property to me. I saw him at Pierce's house in the spring of 1888. I talked with him then on general business and mining property. I cannot say that I saw anything different in his manner in the later times than before. One time I thought he was under the influence of liquor. I saw in the conversation about the loan that he was very cautious; he said he would perform what he had promised. I saw nothing that indicated mental unsoundness. I consider him perfectly competent to do any business I had with him, as competent as any man I did business with.

On cross-examination the witness said he had not repaid the loan which he had made, or paid the interest on it. Mr. Pierce has the note and it is due at the present time. He did not know that there was a will at that time. He had talked with Mr. Pierce about the note, and understood that he was in charge of the estate. Mr. Pierce paid the witness $3 last Saturday. He borrowed it from him, as he had some things he had to buy in the city.

"Didn't you have a deed prepared for Mr. Banta to sign for the mining property?" asked Mr. Metcalf of the witness.

"No, sir; it was a bond."

"Didn't you come to my office to have him sign it?"

"Yes, sir; if you approved it."

"Did he sign it?"

"No, sir."

"Why?"

"You said it was unfair to Banta. It was all on one side."

M. G. Hester, sworn: I knew Isaac Banta. Met him about January 1, 1887. I was associated with Mr. Winslow, and Mr. Banta was frequently in the office on business matters. We transacted all his legal business up to June, 1887. I saw him last a few days before he started back to Ohio in 1888. He had a great deal of business with us. We passed upon questions of title; he always passed upon questions of value; all matters of fact. His acts impressed me, and I formed an opinion of his mental ability. My judgment was that he was a very shrewd business man. The question of his sanity or insanity never entered my head. He was decidedly a sane man at that time. He acted just as any other sane man would act.

This concluded the trial for the day, and court adjourned until this morning.

LAW VS. EQUITY.

Dr. Den Objects to Sidewalk Laying Without Notice.

Dr. Den has called at the office of THE TIMES in reference to the report of the Council's action which appeared in this paper yesterday wherein the City Fathers over-ruled the Doctor's protest against the payment of an assessment for making a sidewalk in front of his property on Hill street. The Doctor is especially outraged at the dictum of the Deputy City Attorney that, "while from a legal standpoint Dr. Den was perhaps right, still all the equities were in favor of the contractors," which remark seemed to have weight with the Council in that it was the only point at issue was one entirely being whether the contractors had followed the statutory requirements in taking and carrying out their contract with the city. Dr. Den claims that his attorney advised him that the contractors had no legal claim upon him. Therefore, as the Doctor had never been a party to the contract, but on the contrary, would have objected to the work being done (having made other arrangements for doing it himself), he feels that the contractors who gave him no notice of what they were going to do, should stand or fall by the legality of their acts. The attempt of the City Attorney to maintain that the Doctor's position, though legal, was not moral, is scouted by the Doctor as a weak exposition of law.

Dr. Den is an old and respected citizen of Los Angeles, punctilious to the last degree in the settlement of his obligations, and his protest would doubtless have received more respectful treatment from the Council had he been represented by any less redoubtable a champion than Statesman Michael Whaling.

FAITH CURE.

METHODS OF THE NEW SCHOOL INVESTIGATED.

How the Little Whiteman Boy Came to Die—It Was All Owing to Lack of Faith on the Mother's Part—Official Investigation.

Brief mention was made in the THE TIMES yesterday morning of the case of a 7-year-old boy who had died of diphtheria while under the care of a "Christian scientist," no regular physician being called in. The case caused a good deal of comment among the neighbors, and yesterday morning Health Officer MacGowan, accompanied by a TIMES reporter, started out to look up the facts, and find out what there was in it, with a view to bringing the matter to the attention of the District Attorney if enough could be discovered to warrant legal proceedings. The name of the parents is Whiteman, and they live in a neat little cottage on Primrose avenue, East Los Angeles. The family consists of the wife, a bright energetic little woman, the husband, a weak, sickly man, apparently in the last stages of consumption, and one child, a manly little fellow of some 8 or 9 years, who, the mother said, was her last remaining prop and standby. The "Christian scientists" involved are Mrs. J. H. Phillips, wife of the Congregational minister of East Los Angeles, who resides on the same street as the Whitemans, Mrs. Faloy, a pupil and disciple of Mrs. Phillips, who lives on Water street, near Chavez, and one Mr. Lewis, residing near the corner of Flower and Seventh streets, but who could not be found yesterday.

The Whiteman cottage was first visited. As good luck would have it the entire family were found at home. Mr. Whiteman had just driven up in his buckboard utterly exhausted and too weak to get out without assistance. The little boy, Roy by name, was assisting his mother to unharness the horse, and as soon as this was done Mrs. Whiteman came forward to find out what the visitors wanted. In answer to questions Mrs. Whiteman said that it was her child who had died, and when asked whether any physician had been called the little woman answered, with tears in her eyes, that they had not secured a physician because they were Christian scientists and believed in that faith. Mrs. Whiteman then talked very freely, giving a full history of the case. She said that she did not believe that her child had diphtheria, but had died of pneumonia. Mrs. Phillips had been called in and was curing the child by prayer, when she had to give up the case owing to her delicate condition, and the patient had been turned over to another "Christian scientist," Mrs. Faloy. The change had not proved beneficial, and the little fellow had continued to grow worse until death put an end to his sufferings. Did Mrs. Phillips receive money for her services? Oh, yes. She charged $5 per week for her attention, the same as any other physician, and she thought she was entitled to it. As for herself, she did not have much money, but she was paying Mrs. Phillips as best she could, by sewing, etc., and would pay all she owed. Of course, when people had no money, Mrs. Phillips would treat them for nothing, and had, she [illegible] done a great deal of good [illegible] said that her husband is now under the care of the "scientists," and is doing splendidly. He had been sick for seven years, and had almost killed himself by taking medicine; but he had quit that now, and she was hopeful of his ultimate recovery.

The woman's blind faith was something marvelous, and even the death of her child did not seem to have shaken her belief in the slightest degree, although it was plain to see that she felt her loss deeply. After getting the address of Mrs. Faloy, the Doctor left, after giving Mrs. Whiteman a few directions about improving the sanitary condition of her little home.

Mrs. Faloy was found at home, and although she was just sitting down to dinner, she postponed her midday repast for the purpose of enlightening her visitors on Christian science in general and the Whiteman case in particular. She was perfectly familiar with the case, she said, having been called in to relieve Mrs. Phillips, who was compelled to give it up, owing to her delicate condition. She thought the child had died of diphtheria, but had not examined its throat or anything of that kind, as "Christian scientists" do not believe in any such diagnosis. She could not understand how the child had come to die, as when she had prayed with it its fever had been allayed, its cough had improved, and it was apparently on the road to recovery, when, about daylight Sunday morning, it gave one or two gasps, and all was over. The only reason that she could assign was that the mother had become frightened at the idea of the child having diphtheria, as people in the neighborhood were talking about it, which reacted on the child, causing death, as it was not strong enough to stand. Mrs. Faloy gave this remarkable hypothesis as though she really believed what she was saying, and insisted that if Mrs. Whiteman had not lost faith the child would certainly have gotten well.

Mrs. Faloy was interrupted at this point by a knocking on the wall, admonishing her that the family were getting impatient about dinner, when she excused herself for a few seconds. Returning, the subject was again taken up, and she was asked if she did not consider it dangerous to visit diphtheria, and then come home to her own children. Oh, no, it did not worry her in the least; there was not the slightest danger, or she would not do it. Why, after laying out the little boy she had come home, and afterwards went to church. Where there is no fever there is no danger, and, as "Christian science" does away with fear it is the only thing that can make the millenium come, when the lion and the lamb will lie down together.

Mrs. Faloy then stated that she was a pupil of Mrs. Phillips, had paid her $15 for a primary course of twelve lectures which she attended once or twice a week. She had a book and was studying very hard, and every time she opened it she learned something new. Did Mrs. Phillips receive money for her services in healing the sick? Certainly, the same as any other physician, $5 per week, when the people were able to pay, but if they were too poor she treated them gratis. Her sister had employed Mrs. Phillips for eight weeks to cure her neuralgia, paying her $40. She had entirely recovered, and was now taking lessons from Mrs. Phillips, so that in the future she could not only cure herself, but treat others.

Mrs. Faloy was then asked if she herself could effect cures, and unhesitatingly replied that she could, and if a person had faith, and would take the treatment, which consisted solely of intense inward prayer, she could cure anything from a broken limb to insanity. Of course, in case of a fracture, the bone would have to be set, but there was no pain, no suffering. Distance was no obstacle in the way of treatment. She could cure a person in Arkansas, Europe, or any other foreign country as readily as she could one in Los Angeles, if the person only had faith. She was now treating a gentleman for the tobacco habit, and was certain of success. Had she any patients? Oh, yes, some ten or twelve, but she did not expect to get much out of them.

The lady then got out her textbook, and submitted it for examination, from which it appeared that the "Christian scientists" do not believe in and never recommend either hygienic or sanitary regulations; but that prayer is the thing, no medicine, drug or manipulation being permitted. All that can be done is for the "healer" to pray for all that is out, and if the patient has the requisite amount of faith, backed up by a strong constitution, he recovers; if not, he dies. The proposition, as will be seen, is a simple one, and no matter which way it finally results the "healer" is "hedged," on the old principle that "if the man gets well, the doctor did it, but if he dies, it is by the grace of God." Mrs. Faloy further said that she would not be afraid to visit a case of smallpox, and would have no hesitancy about going into her own family, or among her friends, so far as spreading the disease was concerned. She was of the opinion that the faith is rapidly spreading, and will in time do away with all medicines and doctors.

At this point the seekers after faith bade the lady good-day, after thanking her for her kindness, and some considerable time was spent in looking for Mr. Lewis, but he could not be located, and the search was afterward abandoned.

Later in the afternoon Dr. MacGowan appeared before the Grand Jury and laid the result of his investigation before that body. He then went to the District Attorney's office for the purpose of getting out a complaint against the "healers," but owing to the fact that no drugs or herbs were given, the case did not come within the meaning of the statute regulating the practice of medicine in this State, it could not issue, and this case had to be abandoned.

Dr. MacGowan, however, does not propose to stop here, but will keep a close lookout, and should there be any violation of the sanitary laws, the offenders will be punished.

Altogether the case is a very singular one, and the tour of investigation brought out a good many curious facts. There is no doubt that "faith cure" has a strong hold on the East Side, and from all indications the superstition is growing every day, and the worst part of the whole thing is that there is no way by which the matter can be reached by law.

CUTTING AFFRAY.

A Tough Citizen Pretty Badly Disfigured by One of His Pals.

A stabbing affray occurred at John Zen's lodging house, on Los Angeles street, yesterday afternoon, between 4 and 5 o'clock, in which Jim Williams, alias "Stumpy," a wooden-legged hoodlum and beggar, was pretty badly cut up about the face and head by a youthful tough named William Phealon. The place where the trouble occurred is one of the toughest "joints" in the city, frequented by tramps and vagabonds, the price of a night's lodging being only 15 cents. "Stumpy" having been more than usually successful, got drunk somewhat earlier than usual, and retired about 4 o'clock. Shortly after he went to his room, Phealon came rushing out saying that the man was badly hurt and should be sent to the hospital. On investigating, "Stumpy" was found lying on his bed, which was covered with blood from half a dozen or more cuts on his face and head. There was an ugly slash across the nose and lip, another deep stab in the temple, and a part of one of his ears was almost severed from his head. His pockets were turned inside out, and it looked as though an attempt had been made to "roll" him. Officer Craig was called, and, on a search being instituted, Phealon was found concealed behind some boxes. He was identified by "Stumpy" as the man who had assaulted him, when both of them were brought to the police station, when one was booked for assault to murder and the other for medical treatment. Dr. Wing was called and dressed "Stumpy's" wounds, which were found to be of a superficial character and in nowise dangerous, but his slight remnant of good looks will be utterly destroyed. Phealon pretended to have taken morphine, but this was probably simulated, although he made a great fuss about it. The injured man was too drunk to give any intelligible account of the affray, but from the circumstances it is believed that he went to bed, when Phealon attempted to rob him, but not being as drunk as he was supposed to be he woke up and kicked, when the thief commenced on him with his knife. "Stumpy" has considerable reputation as a fighter, and notwithstanding he has but one leg he is regarded as more than a match for most of the hard characters with whom he associates.

The case will be investigated by Justice Stanton this afternoon.

THE DUDE SWINDLER.

Williams Arraigned and Held in the Sum of $1500 Bail.

Williams, the dude forger and swindler, was arraigned before Justice Savage yesterday afternoon, and held in the sum of $1500, his examination being set for the 27th. In default of bail, he was committed to jail. The fellow came very near slipping out on tichnicality, as the law requires that a man charged with a crime must be arraigned within 24 hours after his capture, which had not been done in his case. There was some dispute in regard to the matter of attorneys, Hugh Crawford claiming to be the attorney in the case, while Williams said that he was represented by Judge Fitzgerald, and would be guided by that gentleman's advice. He was arraigned, however, when Mr. Crawford moved that he be discharged on the ground that he had not been arraigned within the legal time, but the Justice held that, having allowed his client to be arraigned, he would now have to stand his examination.

The Sheriff's office is working up a great deal of evidence against Williams, and it is more than probable that he will be cinched. A letter was received at the Nadeau, Monday night, addressed to C. Arthur Blake, and postmarked Vicksburg, Miss., which is supposed to be for Williams.

The Philharmonics.

The chorus of the Philharmonic Society met last night in business session and resolved to take a vacation of two months. Announcement of rehearsals for the second year will be given hereafter.

THE TOAL CASE.

SINGULAR FEALTY OF AN INJURED WIFE.

She Sends Her Son, Who Is the Complaining Witness Against Her Brute of a Husband, Away from Town so That He May Not Testify.

A singular complication in the approaching trial of Frank Toal for brutally cutting his wife has been averted by the alertness of Sheriff Aguirre and Detective Brady. Readers of THE TIMES will remember the thrill of horror which came over them when they read the details of the fiendish crime of Toal. He cut and slashed his wife with a knife, inflicting several horrible wounds, and it was almost a miracle that she was not killed. After intense suffering the woman recovered, but is sadly disfigured.

The only witness to the crime was the young son of the would-be murderer, Frank Toal, Jr. It was feared at the time that that he would be run off before the trial came on, but it was not believed that the mother, who had suffered such agony from the wounds inflicted by her husband, would be the one to endeavor to spirit away the only witness to the affray. Yet such is the case.

A few days since, it was learned that young Toal had left the city. It being only a few days before the trial, which begins day after tomorrow, the District Attorney became very nervous over the information. His fears were communicated to the Sheriff, and he at once set about locating the witness. It was not until night before last that a trace was obtained of his whereabouts. At that time the Sheriff and Detective Brady started out in a wagon toward Santa Monica. After a series of adventures, they finally got as far as the mouth of Coldwater Cañon, and from that point they were obliged to walk all the way up the cañon. When they arrived at its head, they found the object of their search on a small ranch.

He made no bones about having left the city to avoid being a witness at the trial, but came with his captors readily enough. He was brought back yesterday morning and put in the County Jail, where he will remain until the trial comes off.

Yesterday, in conversation, he said that he himself thought his father would be best off in the penitentiary, but his mother thought differently about it, and had sent him out to the ranch to keep him out of the way until after the trial. He went out once and came back, but his mother sent him there again.

It is understood that Mrs. Toal is very loath to testify against her husband, as she is very much afraid of him.

PIMPLES TO SCROFULA.

A Positive Cure for every Skin, Scalp, and Blood Disease, except Ichthyosis.

Psoriasis 8 years. Head, arms, and breast a solid scab. Back covered with sores. Best doctors and medicines fail. Cured by Cuti[illegible] $5.75.

I have used the CUTICURA REMEDIES with the best results. I used two bottles of the CUTICURA RESOLVENT, three boxes of CUTICURA, and one cake of CUTICURA SOAP, and am cured of a terrible skin and scalp disease known as psoriasis. I had it for eight years. It would get better and worse at times. Sometimes my head would be a solid scab, and was at the time I began the use of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. My arms were covered with scabs from my elbows to shoulders, my breast was almost one solid scab, and my back covered with sores varying in size from a pennyto a dollar. I had doctored with all the best doctors with no relief, and used many different medicines without effect. My case was hereditary, and I began to think incurable, but it began to heal from the first application of CUTICURA. ARCHER RUSSELL, Deshler, Ohio.

Skin Disease 6 Years Cured.

I am thankful to say that I have used the CUTICURA REMEDIES for about eight months with great success, and consider myself entirely cured of salt rheum, from which I have suffered for six years. I tried a number of medicines and two of the best doctors in the country, but found nothing that would effect a cure until I used your remedies. MRS. A. MCLAFLIN, Morette, Mo.

The Worst Case of Scrofula Cured.

We have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES for years, and have the first complaint yet to receive from a purchaser. One of the worst cases of Scrofula I ever saw was cured by the use of five bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, CUTICURA, and CUTICURA SOAP. TAYLOR & TAYLOR, Druggists, Frankfort, Kan.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH.

Complete External and Internal Treatment for One Dollar.

To be freed from the dangers of suffocation while lying down; to breathe freely, sleep soundly and undisturbed; to rise refreshed, head clear, brain active and free from pain or ache; to know that no poisonous, putrid matter defiles the breath and rots away the delicate machinery of smell, taste, and hearing; to feel that the system does not, through its veins and arteries, suck up the poison that is sure to undermine and destroy, is indeed a blessing beyond most human enjoyments. To purchase immunity from such a fate should be the object of all afflicted. But those who have tried many remedies and physicians despair of relief or cure.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE meets every phase of Catarrh, from a simple head cold to the most loathsome and destructive stages. It is local and constitutional. Instant in relieving, permanent in curing, safe, economical, and rarely failing.

Sanford's Radical Cure

Consists of one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box of CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and one IMPROVED INHALER, all wrapped in one package, with treatise and directions, and sold by all druggists for $1.00.

POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CORPORATION, Boston.

FREE from RHEUMATISM.

In one minute the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster relieves rheumatic, sciatic, hip, kidney, chest and muscular pains and weaknesses. The first and only pain-killing plaster.

THE "little busy bee" may perhaps be compelled to encounter some competition in the way of business, since an extensive deposit of mineral wax has been discovered in Utah which resembles beeswax, and can be used for the same purposes.

THE prohibition amendment in Pennsylvania has been lost by a large majority. This is as might have been expected, after the very successful working of high license in Philadelphia. Unpractical prohibition theories have had their day, and reasonable high license is gaining favor throughout the country. Prohibition does not prohibit, while high license does restrict.

THE Canadian Pacific has had a hard time in fighting caterpillars at various times this spring. WHEN last heard from, the Central American Exploring Expedition, under Mr. A. J. Miller, was on the point of starting for the interior, and the chief sent word that he would not be heard from again for several weeks. His third letter to THE TIMES and associated journals will be forthcoming in due time, though it is not expected that these letters will be published regularly, that being impracticable under the circumstances. This is not an Associated Press expedition, as some journals have supposed.

IN our telegraph columns will be found a portion of the address delivered by President Smith yesterday, at the thirteenth annual National Camp of the Patriotic Order of Sons of America. In this address, Mr. Smith calls attention, in clarion tones, to the importance of committing to Americans the care and preservation of American principles and institutions, and dwells upon the danger to this country existing in such anti-American societies as the Clan-na-Gael. It is about time that Americans—in which designation we include all citizens who hold to American principles above all others—should assert themselves, and cease to pander to what is known as the "foreign vote." There should be no foreign vote or foreign flag in this country.

THE State Board of Trade Committee on Arid Lands elicited some interesting information, at its meeting in San Francisco on Monday. It was shown that enormous tracts of land in the Southern counties were still open for irrigation, under existing water supplies, without counting what might be developed. One of the most interesting statements was that of W. H. Mills, who showed that, in the San Joaquin Valley, about two crops in five pays the farmer, and that the three crops lost would place every acre in the valley under irrigation, or, in other words, the loss in five years is equal to the cost of reclamation by irrigation. Under such circumstances, it cannot surely be long before every available acre in this State is brought under irrigation. People now-a-days do not let gold eagles lie around loose.

THE CHAMBER CHOPS ON THE BUILDING QUESTION.

At this juncture, when the real attitude of the Chamber of Commerce towards the public building question is a matter of some curiosity, a connected narrative of the proceedings of that body in this behalf will be pertinent matter to print. The following summary is made up from the records:

On the 1st of May, Secretary Higgins wrote to Representative Vandever, asking him if he would attend a meeting of the Chamber, to be held on May 8th, to discuss these questions.

On May 2d, the Board of Directors approved the action of the secretary.

On May 8th this meeting was held—Gen. Vandever present. The public-building question was discussed, and referred to a committee consisting of Dr. J. P. Widney, H. C. Witmer, E. P. Johnson, S. W. Luitweiler and Dr. Bryant. A good deal of discussion was had on the letters written by President Germain of the Board of Trade to the Secretary of the Treasury (without the knowledge of the Congressman) urging that work on the Federal building be pushed; and it was claimed that had those letters not been written, the chance of securing a larger appropriation would have been enhanced.

On the 16th of May the directors discussed the matter again, and adopted the following resolution:

Resolved, that it is the sense of this board that work should be immediately stopped on this building, and that steps should at once be taken to purchase more ground adjoining the present site, and to enlarge the building, and that the committee now considering the subject be informed of this resolution.

(A report had gained currency that the committee was favoring a change of site.) The committee, however, did not report until the 23d of May, when three members of it—Widney, Luitweiler and Bryant—made an elaborate report. Ex-Representative Markham was present, and the entire matter was discussed at length, Col. Markham opposing a stoppage of work. The report (which was published in full in THE TIMES of the 13th inst.) recommended the stoppage of work, the purchase of ample grounds, and the increase of the appropriation; failing in which, the recommendation was made that the original plan of locating the postoffice in the building should be abandoned. It was resolved by the chamber at the same meeting—

That the secretary immediately communicate with our Representative in Congress, Gen. William Vandever, and the Hon. Leland Stanford, chairman of the Committee on Public Buildings in the United States Senate, and inform them that this board has carefully and thoroughly examined into the matter of the Government building now being erected in this city, and it is the sense of the board that work on said building should be stopped at once and an effort made at the next session of Congress to obtain a sufficient appropriation to purchase additional ground adjoining the present site and to enlarge the present building, so that it will have at least double the ground space covered by the present building, and be three stories in height.

Following a special meeting of the directors held on the succeeding Saturday (the 15th), twelve members being present, the directors visited the Government-building site and spent two or three hours there, looking at the structure and site, and discussing the same. As a result of their deliberations, a committee was appointed, consisting of Messrs. Lankershim, Denker and Jones, to secure a favorable option on adjoining land, and the secretary was instructed to withold the formal notice, which he had previously been directed to send to Representative Vandever, until the next regular meeting.

At a meeting of the directors held on the 31st day of May, the action taken relative to the Government building at the last preceding meeting was affirmed, and the secretary was directed to carry out his previous instructions by sending the resolutions forward to Gen. Vandever at once, and to prepare a statement of facts, using his own discretion as to what would be proper in the premises.

This statement was prepared, signed by the president, three vice-presidents and fifteen directors, and was duly forwarded. (It also was published in full in THE TIMES of the 13th inst.)

At this point we may say it is stated by the secretary, outside of the record, that at no time in the discussions of the directors was any desire expressed to change the location of the building. On the contrary, in all discussions the idea of a change was deprecated.

Mr. Lankershim, from the committee appointed to secure additional ground, reported in due time that he had secured an option on 90 feet of frontage adjoining the Government site on the south, the option being good until May 1, 1890.

At a full meeting of the Chamber, held June 12th, all preceding acts of the Board of Directors, together with the report of the special committee, were laid before the Chamber, and the course of the Board of Directors was approved, with the exception of the following clause, which was stricken from their resolution and non-concurred in:

—and an effort made at the next session of Congress to obtain a sufficient appropriation to purchase additional ground adjoining the present site, and to enlarge the present building, so that it will have at least double the space covered by the present building, and be three stories in height.

This completes the record.

In order to procure the striking out of the above clause, it was persistently and clamorously urged that the Government should purchase a full block of ground, and set its building in the middle of it, surrounded by grass, posies and things, and that for this philanthropic and utilitarian purpose an appropriation of a million dollars was little enough; that, in fact, it would be nothing short of an indignity for the United States to do less for Los Angeles; and, finally, that if we should go to Uncle Sam with a request for a beggarly ninety feet additional of frontage, he might think that is all we want.

We do not assert that there was or is an African in the brush-heap; but why did the chamber chop?

This full statement of the action and attitude of the chamber is sufficient, we think, to show that that body is not yet fixed in its convictions on this question. There is no reason why it may not and should not reverse its latest action.

THE GOVERNMENT BUILDING.

Practical business men go about a practical subject in a practical way.

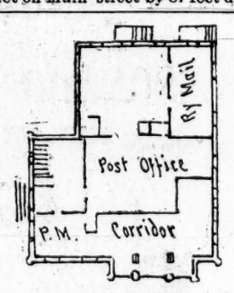
In seeking Government aid for an enterprise, if we expect to succeed, we must ask for what is suited to the object in hand, and what is within the bounds of reason. At a time when we are asking for some $4,000,000 for improvements in San Pedro Harbor; when San Francisco is asking for a very large appropriation for public works in that city, and when other towns, cities and ports along the Pacific Coast are properly asking for appropriations for their benefit, it would be injudicious, if not absolutely foolish and useless, for Los Angeles to ask a sum for this purpose so large as to render it practically certain in advance that Congress will refuse to grant it. Therefore, it behooves us—citizens of Los Angeles—in urging Congress for the needed appropriation, to confine ourselves to reason, and to do nothing that might result in the defeat of all early appropriations, or their postponement for two or three years, which is an achievement not difficult of accomplishment in the case of Government appropriations.

A feasible plan for a building suited to the needs of the city, backed up by clear reasons and common-sense arguments, not sky-scraping theories, will, without doubt, elicit a favorable response from Congress. A chimerical plan, backed by an unreasonable demand, will be worse than folly.

As to the proposition to put the Government building in the center of an entire block, surrounded by a park, lawns, fountains, sphinxes, trees, calla lilies, birds and things, it seems to us so unbusiness-like and chimerical, that it should not be entertained. Even if our people choose to entertain it, we cannot bring ourselves to believe that Uncle Sam would entertain so fanciful a proposition. A Government building is an official business house, and there is nothing extraordinary, mean or shocking in locating it after the manner of business buildings generally, that is, upon business streets. This is the prevailing custom with Government buildings throughout the country; there may be exceptions, but they are exceptions, and should not be taken as precedents.

Certain it is that, in the case in hand, Congress is not going to appropriate a very heavy sum for the purchase of a "park" in which to locate its building.

So far as the building now under way is concerned, there is no dispute in any quarter about its inadequacy, but fortunately the defect is susceptible of correction, and this can be done without stopping work on it, and without more than a trifling expense for the change. We present below a diagram of the building as projected, prepared by Superintendent Jacobs at our request, showing the ground plan and dimensions of the building, which is 76 feet on Main street by 87 feet deep.



NOTE.—The Postmaster's and working room occupies 3775 square feet; the railway mail service 478 square feet—total, 4253 square feet.

This plan, it will be seen, gives a ground-floor space of 3775 feet for the use of the postoffice, and 478 feet for the use of the railway mail service. This space is, to be sure, considerably less than that now occupied by the postoffice, which, by a good deal of unnecessary expansion in its various departments, manages to cover a floor space of some 6000 feet. In order to do this, the postmaster and his principal subordinates "spread themselves" in the following manner: Not including the main room, where the sorting, pouching and other heavy work is done—which room is 50 by 60 feet—the officials' rooms occupy the spaces indicated below:

The postmaster occupies two rooms, about 15x20.
The assistant-postmaster occupies one room, about 20x20.
The superintendent of mails occupies one room, about 10x12.
The superintendent of carriers occupies one room, about 10x12.
The money-order department occupies one room, about 15x20.
The registered mail occupies three rooms, about 22x45.
The railway mail service occupies three rooms, about 15x40.

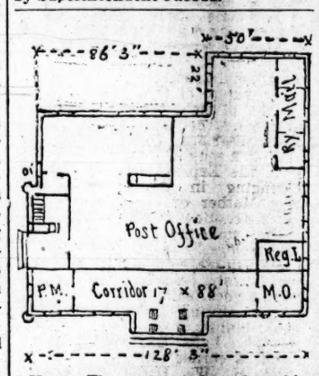
We have no wish to specially criticise this arrangement, desiring to see all Government officials amply provided for in the matter of quarters; but, as a fact, it can be asserted, without fear of successful contradiction, that the postoffice business of Los Angeles can today be transacted in a floor space of 4000 feet. However, let that pass, and let us turn to the question of the future needs of this office.

It would be a mistake to assume that the increase in our postoffice requirements will be in proportion to the expected increase in population. Thus, the doubling of our population would by no means involve the doubling of our postoffice facilities; first, because, when the complete machinery of any business is once set in motion a very much larger amount of work can be performed than before, without a material increase in the working force; and secondly, for the more important reason that the establishment of stations or branch postoffices, which will almost certainly come in the near future, will relieve the central office to a great extent, enabling it to transact the postal business for 200,000 people as readily as it now transacts it for 80,000. Sooner or later, the number of such stations or branch postoffices will, in all probability, reach as many as four, located at convenient points in different parts of the city. (Incidentally, we desire to say right here that we are strongly in favor of the establishment of a central station at some point, say near Temple and Spring streets.)

We now come to the question of the proposed enlargement of the present building and grounds. Fortunately, there is nothing whatever in the way of this enterprise, save the unwisdom and want of harmony of our own people and the consent of Congress, which may not be easy to get, but which we believe can be got by a judicious presentation of our case, and a patient but discreet pushing of the same. Additional land, to the amount of 90 feet on Main street, adjoining the present building, is available. The recommendation of Superintendent Jacobs is that a 50-foot wing, corresponding with the north wing, be added on the south side, running back 22 feet further than the present building, and that the building be made three stories high, thus doubling its capacity. This would give us a building 128 feet on Main street by 109 feet deep—a symmetrical, handsome structure, entirely adequate to the purposes required, and a credit to the Government and the city.

This arrangement will meet all the requirements of law in the matter of stipulating that the building must have at least forty feet of vacant space on all sides between it and any other building.

We present a diagram, also prepared by Superintendent Jacobs:



NOTE.—The postmaster's and working room will occupy 8215 square feet; the railway mail service, 717 square feet; together, 8932 square feet.

To secure the proposed enlargement of building and grounds, it will require, according to Mr. Jacobs's most liberal estimate, an additional appropriation of $350,000. Possibly the work could be done for $300,000, thus making the total cost of building and site $350,000, or possibly $400,000. It is safe to say that we shall be doing exceedingly well to secure the lowest of these sums, and that it would not be the part of wisdom to lose our heads by insisting on a million-dollar appropriation, and taking the chance of getting nothing.

As enlarged, the building will have a floor space of 8215 feet for the use of the postoffice, and 717 feet for the use of the chief of the railway mail service (a department which, if necessary, could be placed on the second floor). This, as has been shown, will give ample room for the comfortable transaction of all postoffice business.

Now as to the other offices: The proposed enlargement will give a total capacity, lacking only about 1300 square feet of the most liberal estimate made by the Chamber of Commerce, as follows. (The figures are approximate:)

	Feet.
For the United States courts and offices, say	6700
For two land offices, say	2000
For internal revenue offices, say	450
For signal service offices, say	450

Add to this the postoffice (8932 feet), and it makes a total of about 18,500 square feet—a space adequate, it is believed, for the needs of a city of 300,000 inhabitants.

As to the cost of the proposed additional land, that is a matter wherein, fortunately, the Government need not be "cinched," if proper care be taken. Should the price for which the land has been bonded be deemed excessive, the land required may be taken, appraised and condemned.

An authoritative statement of the expense thus far incurred develops the following facts: There has already been put into the building labor and materials to the value of some $40,000; contracts, which will have to be made good by the Government, are out for materials, etc., to the value of $25,000 more, and the sum of $28,000 was paid by the Government for the site. Thus, the expenditure and contracts on the part of the Government and contractors amount to over $90,000, to say nothing of the $27,000 contributed by citizens toward the purchase of the site—an investment involving equities that need to be respected.

The case has now been fully and fairly stated by THE TIMES, and we invite a candid and business-like consideration of the whole question on the part of the Chamber of Commerce, the Board of Trade, public officials and citizens in general. The conclusion is obvious. Work should not be stopped, but go on to a point where, in the judgment of the capable officer superintending it, when approved by the Treasury, it shall become necessary to suspend it, pending an additional appropriation by Congress, which we trust may yet be obtained.

ROYAL A. JOHNSON has been appointed Surveyor General of Arizona. There has been much objection in the Territory to the appointment of Mr. Johnson, under the claim that he was favorable, when Surveyor General before, to the pretensions of "Baron" Beavis, of Peralta grant fame.

A Plan for Reclaiming Land Covered by Lake Tulare's Waters and Freeing It from Alkali.

By Telegraph to The Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 18.—[By the Associated Press.] Ex-Policeman Joseph W. Wallace shot and killed George H. Rice, proprietor of the Elite Theater, on Grand avenue, this evening. Wallace had been employed for the past few weeks as a special watchman about the theater, but last night was discharged. This morning he began drinking, and it is said threatened to seek revenge on Rice for discharging him. About 7 o'clock he went into a saloon on Stockton street and called for a messenger boy, to whom he gave a note. The messenger took the note and soon returned with a revolver. Wallace said that he wanted a knife, but he thought he could "fix him" with a pistol.

He then went to the Elite Theater, which is in a cellar, and was standing on the steps when Rice entered. He tripped Rice as he came down the steps and then fired four shots, all of which took effect, two of them in the region of the heart.

Rice was carried to his room where he died in a short time. Wallace was arrested but refuses to make a statement.

THE WINE-MAKERS.

A French Criticism of California Champagne.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 18.—[By the Associated Press.] At a meeting of the Grape-growers' and Wine-makers' Association tonight, Arpad Haraszthy, Prof. Husmann, R. T. Perce and I. de Turk stated that the crops in Yolo, Sutter, Napa, Santa Clara and Sonoma counties would be good. In the southern part of Napa county many acres of grapes have been spoiled by the phylloxera. Mr. De Turk suggested that, inasmuch as California brandy is not distinctively known, a corporation should be formed for the distillation of all our brandies in two or three large distilleries, whereby a standard brand could be made.

At the afternoon session Mr. Haraszthy discussed at length the subject of the bottling and maturing of wines. He said his success in bottling came from not clarifying his wines until they were 24 months old. He then dissected the recent statements of G. H. Mumm, to the effect that no good champagnes could be made in this country, and read a long open letter which he had addressed to Mumm, and in which he asks that gentleman if it is not the flavoring of the artificial syrup in the French champagne that gives the quality which it is claimed comes solely from chalky soils.

On motion the chairman appointed C. A. Wetmore, A. G. Chance, George Hanomann, Julius P. Smith and E. H. Rixford a committee to consider the statements of Mumm regarding the wine interests of California, and to properly reply thereto through the leading New York papers.

I. de Turk, Arpad Haraszthy and Herman Bendel were appointed a committee to confer with merchants and capitalists with a view to organizing a corporation to enter into the distillation of brandies and to place them on the market in quantities large enough to supply the world's demand.

TULARE'S LAND.

A Plan to Make it Drain Alkali from Adjoining Lands.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 18.—[By the Associated Press.] G. Woodbury of the State Fish Commission in a report communicated to Prof. E. W. Hilyard of the University of California sets forth the result of his investigations into the condition of Tulare Lake. He says:

"There are now under water about 200,000 acres of land of what might be made the best quality, and this land under alfalfa would be worth many times what it is now under water, for fishes. Why would it not be a good idea to drain this lake down four feet lower to the banks of the channel into the San Joaquin River, through a canal that would at the same time serve as a water way up to that old channel in the lake, through which boats could go with freight? I think by this scheme in a short time all the surplus alkali would be drained into the ocean from the lake and surrounding country, for as fresh water from the mountains is spread over the land, it must sink down and gradually push more alkaline waters down the canal, so the land would in time be freed from alkali and the canal would be left full by the under drainage which the lake now receives and separates."

Militia to Be Withdrawn—Insurance Money Attached.

NEW YORK, June 18.—The New York creditors of Toklas, Singerman & Co., dealers in dry goods at Seattle, Wash., who were burned out on the 6th inst. with a loss on stock estimated at $210,000 and insurance at $125,000, are trying to attach the insurance money. Attachments have been granted by the Supreme Court to the amount of $43,431. The Sheriff has served attachments on about twenty-five insurance companies in this city, but most of them are foreign companies who claim that they can only adjust losses this side of the Rocky Mountains and that all Pacific Coast losses are adjusted in San Francisco. The creditors in the latter city, it is said, have attached all the insurance money in San Francisco. Their last statement to Bradstreet's showed assets of $369,753, liabilities $192,206.

LORD VS. DUNSTER.

The Latter Sustained by the Supreme Court.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 18.—[By the Associated Press.] The contested election case of Lord against Dunster, on appeal from the Superior Court of Nevada county, was decided by the Supreme Court today. The parties were candidates for the office of Sheriff of Nevada county at the last election, and in the recount and hearing by the lower court Lord was declared entitled to the office, although Dunster had been proclaimed elected. Before the decision was rendered by the lower court, Dunster moved for a continuance on the ground of newly-discovered evidence, it being the affidavits of 139 voters of Boston Ravine precinct that they had voted for him, although on the recount he had but 109 votes to his credit. The Lower Court refused to continue the case, however, and Dunster appealed.

The Supreme Court holds that in view of the showing he made it was error on the part of the lower court to refuse a reasonable continuance, and the cause is remanded for a new trial.

San Diego Will Go Whaling.

SAN DIEGO, June 18.—Capt. O. Blair, F. C. Wheeler and James Rae, well-known citizens of San Diego, returned today from the Cortez fishing bank, which was discovered by the Albatross, and is about 100 miles from San Diego. Several months ago they made a thorough investigation and confirm Capt. Fauner's report of the extent of the banks. Before reaching the banks, whales were seen in large numbers, and the men claim to have seen over 200, all ranging from 40 to 60 feet long. The whales approached so close that they could have been harpooned from the boat.

The Oceanic Company will have to wait for a special act of Congress before the claim can be paid.

JOHNSTOWN, (Pa.), June 18.—[By the Associated Press.] The first effort looking to the establishment of a civil government here was made this afternoon, when Gen. Hastings met the few remaining members of the Council and reorganized that body. President Kennedy presided at the meeting, and after reorganizing it was decided to allow business men to build temporary structures on the two public parks of the place. After the meeting Gen. Hastings offered to withdraw the troops at once, but the Council asked that they be allowed to remain here for a week longer, when it is thought the citizens can assume charge.

Occasionally a corpse is found buried in the débris and rubbish throughout the town, but the most prolific spot is the mass of wreckage above the railroad bridge. Eleven bodies were blown up there by the blasting today.

Guards at Camp Hastings, near the Prospect Hill burying ground, report today that they are having trouble with dogs that are constantly disturbing the dead interred in that cemetery. Over one hundred dogs were driven from the place last night and several of them killed. The hastily-dug graves there are shallow, and the dogs have been uncovering and devouring the bodies.

CHICAGO, June 18.—[By the Associated Press.] The Cronin Grand Jury came into court today, and reported that W. E. Bell of the Western Union Telegraph refused to disclose the contents of certain dispatches deemed necessary for the investigation. The attorney for the Western Union explained that this refusal was merely formal to fulfill the requirements of the law. An order was then spread upon the record of the court, directing witnesses, under pain of contempt and commitment, to produce any and all messages, cablegrams, or copies thereof, to the Chicago office, passing between Alexander Sullivan, Dan Coughlin, P. O'Sullivan, John J. Maroney and Charles McDonald, whether under their true names or any aliases, or between either of these men and any other person or persons since the 1st of March last.

Fifteen or twenty witnesses were before the jury this afternoon, but not much information was obtained from them. Rev. Father Dorney was called and asked to give the particulars of P. W. Dunne's charge of embezzlement against Alexander Sullivan and his (Dorney's) subsequent investigation of this charge by agreement of the principals. Father Dorney related the circumstances of the charge, and stated that it was only after a full investigation of the affairs of Sullivan, and the amount of his annual income that he pronounced Dunne's charge groundless. The reverend gentleman was also questioned closely regarding his knowledge of Clan-na-Gael affairs, but failed to disclose any particular knowledge of their workings.

THE PRISONER BURKE.

WINNIPEG, June 18.—Burke, the Cronin suspect, arrested here, was arraigned in the police court this morning. The Chief of Police stated that he was holding the prisoner on the strength of telegrams from the Chicago authorities, charging him with being the principal in the Cronin murder. The police magistrate accordingly remanded him until Saturday.

CHICAGO, June 18.—Chief of Police Hubbard, in speaking of the arrest of Martin Burke in Winnipeg, said this morning that he had a good deal more evidence against Burke than had been published. He said there was not a shadow of a doubt in his mind that Burke helped kill Dr. Cronin. The police do not say where this information comes from, but it is stated that a friend of Burke has "squealed" and will accompany the officer with a requisition to Winnipeg.

WOODRUFF'S RECORD.

How He Tried to Railroad a Man to the Gallows.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 18.—[By the Associated Press.] The Evening Post in giving the criminal history of Frank Black, alias Woodruff, now under arrest in Chicago for connection with the Cronin murder, says that Woodruff was in prison at Oakland in 1885 on a charge of petty larceny, when George Jones was arrested for the murder of Lorenzo Dutil, a saloon-keeper who was found dead with his head crushed in. The evidence against him was purely circumstantial, and the most conclusive testimony was that of [illegible] to the effect that Jones was in love with the wife of the murdered man. Jones was convicted and sentenced to be hanged. A new trial was granted on technical grounds, and owing to Jones's old age and ill health, he never has been brought to a second trial. It is claimed that Jones was to be railroaded to the gallows by detectives to secure the reward, and that Woodruff was a tool in the hands of the conspirators.

AMUSEMENTS.

GRAND OPERA-HOUSE.—The second performance of The Ivy Leaf last night was witnessed by an interested audience, which filled the upper portions of the house, and made a fair showing downstairs. The introduced songs and dances were received with great gusto and vociferously encored.

MANAGER WYATT'S BENEFIT.—Mr. Wyatt's popularity as a manager is strongly attested in the large sale of seats for his benefit, which will take place tomorrow night at the Grand. In addition to the performance of The Ivy Leaf by the company now playing at the theater, the additional attraction is offered of a sort of dress review of the principal singers belonging to the new opera company to appear next week under Mr. Wyatt's management at the Los Angeles Theater. A number of vocal selections, operatic and otherwise, will thus prove a strong drawing card for the manager's benefit.

PEOPLE'S THEATER.—The popular play of The Banker's Daughter is proving a successful attraction for this house, and the piece is given with an amount of attention to detail not often found in companies which make as modest pretensions as this one. The play is fairly well acted, and makes a good evening's entertainment for those who like melodramatic exhibitions at popular prices.

THE SOUTH FORK DAM.

CAUSE OF THE TERRIBLE JOHNSTOWN DISASTER.

A Civil Engineer's Description of the Dam and Explanation of the Great Break—A Fearful Responsibility on Somebody's Shoulders.

[The following is the full report of H. W. Brinckerhoff, C.E., of the editorial staff of the Engineering and Building Record (New York,) which THE TIMES has received from that journal in the form of a special supplemental sheet, issued after the regular publication of June 8th. The report is intended to supplement Mr. Brinckerhoff's telegraphic dispatch published in his journal of June 8th. The diagram is reproduced from the journal named for the information of TIMES readers.—ED.]

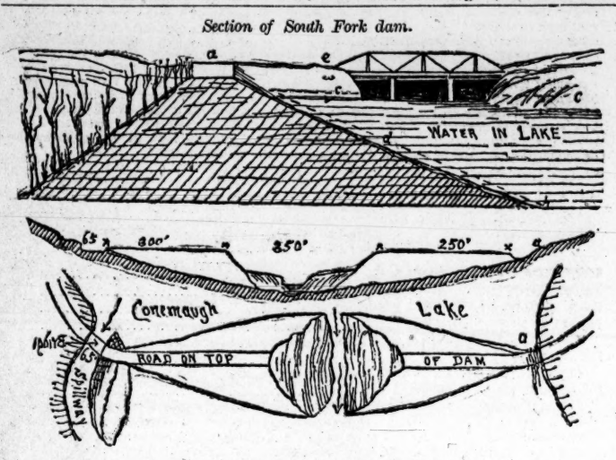
The Johnstown Disaster.

Leaving New York on the afternoon of June 3d for the scene of the disaster at Johnstown, I proceeded to Harrisburg, arriving there that evening only to find further progress in that direction impossible, and spent until 4 p.m. the next day in getting back to Philadelphia, the break-up further east having considerably deranged the running of trains between Harrisburg and Philadelphia.

At 5 p.m. of June 4th I took the first regular train on the Baltimore and Ohio that had been sent out since the floods, and arrived in Johnstown about 1:30 the next day, some six hours later than schedule time, but had the satisfaction of being in company with several members of a relief corps who had left Baltimore on a special train some 12 hours sooner than I did.

I made strenuous efforts to get to the South Fork Dam that afternoon, but no team was to be had for love or money. Next morning, however, by the kind assistance of Mr. McLean, secretary of the Johnson Steel Street Rail Company, I secured a double team and driver, and in company with a member of the American Society of Mining Engineers, proceeded over the 12 miles of rough road that lay between the ruined city and the cause of its destruction.

Section of South Fork dam.



Plan and elevation of South Fork dam.

Arriving at the scene of the break, we found an earthen embankment stretching a distance of about 900 feet on its crest across the valley of the south fork of the Conemaugh. Its central portion had been completely washed out down to, and even below, the original bed of the stream, the rush of the released water having scooped out quite a basin just below the dam.

The width of the break at the crest was about 350 feet, narrowing to perhaps less than one-fourth of that amount at the bottom. The structure of the remaining portions thus exposed in section showed a tolerably homogeneous mass of stiff gravelly clay, well covered with rip-rap on both slopes, the lower slope having quite a growth of trees and bushes on it. My first look was for the heart wall of puddle or masonry that is usual in large earthen dams, but a closer examination of the material left no doubt in my mind that the omission was due to the fact that the dam was practically all puddle, of very good quality.

This had apparently been deposited in pretty uniform horizontal layers, and the exposed portions showed a high resistance to the erosion of the flood, standing with very steep, and in some cases perpendicular slopes. The section of the dam, as near as could be estimated, with the assistance of a 50-foot tape, was as follows: Height, 80 feet, width at top, 20 feet; width at bottom, 300 feet; inner slope, two to one, length, 160 feet; outer slope, one and one-half to one, length, 120 feet.

The rip-rap, on the inner slope at least, was mostly of irregular quarry stone, such as one or two men could handle, and the toe of the inner slope was of roughly squared stone carefully set on edge. The inner slope was also slightly concave, or, in other words, its inclination increased from the toe up, averaging, however, as above. The outer slope was so overgrown as to be less readily examined.

Around the north end of the dam a spillway or waste weir had been cut through the solid rock, of which both sides of the valley at this point appears to be composed, more or less covered, however, with soil. This waste weir was 65 feet wide at its narrowest point before it commenced to descend materially. It was somewhat wider at its upper end, enough probably to amply offset the obstruction occasioned by a fish screen, three feet high or so, attached to the post of a carriage bridge which crossed at that point. The bottom of the waste weir at its inlet is about 10 feet below the crest of the dam at its nearest point. This, in the absence of a level, was estimated by measuring up from the bottom of the weir on the posts of the bridge above mentioned and sighting across. The crest of the dam, some 300 feet long, between the weir end and the break, sloped uniformly from the former to the latter point, as could be seen by sighting along it, a line from the weir end over the edge at the break falling several feet below the edge of the crest on the opposite side of the break. As near as could be estimated, by measuring up from the water mark on the rip-rap and by sighting across from the bottom of the waste weir to the water mark on the other side of the reservoir, the crest of the dam at the side of the break next to the weir was about seven feet above the bottom of the weir.

At the bottom of the break, on the line of the inner toe, were the remains of the foundation of a gate-house, from which some large iron pipes had originally extended through the dam for the purpose of drawing off the water, when the reservoir was used for its original purpose of supplying the State canal. According to the statement of an old resident of the vicinity, some time after its use for this purpose had been discontinued, a leak along these pipes or the tunnel in which they were laid caused a washout of the central portion of the dam; the break, however, does not appear to have been so extensive as the present one and caused no serious damage. When the breach was closed, to form a lake for its recent use of boating and fishing, the pipes for drawing off were no longer needed, and were therefore omitted.

What sort of work was done and what material was used in repairing this break there is nothing now left to show, as far as can be judged from the general appearance of things, and the fact that both leaks occurred at the same point. It will, therefore, be understood that all that has been said so far probably applies exclusively to the original work.

The depression of the crest of the remaining portions of the dam towards the center is most likely due to the settlement of the embankment, which would naturally be greatest where the dam was highest. If, as is probable, the crest of the new work was made fair with the old at the start it would in the course of time settle to even a lower point, perhaps four or five feet below the elevation of the dam at the ends. This would, in a measure, at least, account for the rapid destruction of the dam. The old resident, before mentioned, who saw the dam go, observed no leakage through the dam, but said the water commenced to flow over the crest of the dam at its center. This continued a couple of hours or so before the flow became serious, then the outer slope began to cut away rapidly under the increased flow, the sides of the breach falling in, from time to time, until in about half an hour the breach was complete.

The overflow was due to a combination of two causes: First, the inadequacy of the waste weir, which, however ample it may seem to have been, was plainly unable to carry off the vast volume of water that poured into the reservoir; and second, to the depression of the crest of the dam at its center. This depression reduced not only the effective discharge area of the weir, but also the velocity of the discharged water, thus very greatly reducing the weir's capacity for relief.

The position as well as the amount of this depression was a serious matter. Being in the center, the overflowing water could wash the widest portion of the outer slope and cut the dam to the bottom in the shortest possible time, both sides of the breach caving in at once, while had the overflow occurred at either end, nearly two-thirds of the dam would have had to have been washed away before the reservoir could have been emptied, and as in addition to this the water could only act on one part of the dam at once, the time required to empty the reservoir would have been increased in a proportion even greater than that of the material to be washed away.

An effort was made in this direction, when the water began flowing over the dam, by cutting through at or near the end of the dam furthest from the waste weir, but rock was soon met with, and a sufficient outlet could not be made in season to prevent the overflow.

Though the section of the dam appears to have been ample to resist overturning or sliding, even with the reservoir full to overflowing, it is easy now to see that an increase in the length of the lower or outer slope, while it would not have prevented the destruction of the dam, would have materially retarded its progress, and thus not only have reduced the volume of the ensuing flood by letting the water out more slowly, but have given more time for those below to escape its coming.

To sum up, it may be said that the dam, as originally designed, seems to have had sufficient stability, and to have been well built. In grading the crest, however, not enough allowance appears to have been made for subsequent settlement, and this defect was probably increased when the dam was repaired, even supposing that no other elements of weakness may not have then been introduced. This concentrated the destructive effect of the overflow at the worst possible point, and the disaster followed.

As compared to the volume of the stream when observed, the waste weir appeared to be of ample dimensions, especially if the crest of the dam had been everywhere ten feet above the bottom of the weir.

Whether the size of the weir bore any reasonable proportion to the area of the water-shed of the South Fork, especially if denuded of trees, or to any observed flood flow of the stream itself, it is, of course, impossible to determine at present.

It may be added that the dam is straight in plan, and its crest was used for a roadway.

[The accompanying plan and elevation of South Fork dam are sufficiently explained by their titles. The point where the attempt was made to relieve the dam by making an additional spill-way is shown at a. In the section a shows height of crest of dam at end near waste weir, which is about three feet above the crest at the break, whose elevation is shown by line b c c, some seven feet above the bottom of the inlet of the waste weir.

The straight line b b shows approximately at d the concavity of the inner slope. At c is the entrance to the carriage bridge over the upper end of the waste weir, which is, however, supported only on posts instead of by what look like piers of masonry in the illustration.—ED. RECORD.]

[Editorial from the Engineering and Building Record of June 8th.]

Just before going to press we received the following important dispatch from Mr. H. W. Brinckerhoff, C.E., of our editorial staff, who is in the Conemaugh Valley making a personal investigation of the dam and its surroundings, in order that the readers of the Engineering and Building Record may have as soon as possible a reliable description of the dam, the failure of which caused such fearful ruin, from one whose experience and judgment gives weight to his conclusions.

Mr. Brinckerhoff telegraphs:

"The dam appears to have been well built of good gravelly clay, about 80 feet high by 800 feet long on top, 20 feet wide on top, about 300 feet wide at bottom, both slopes well rip-rapped. Failure appears to have been due to overflow, caused by inadequacy of spill-way and aggravated by the fact that the dam was two or three feet lower at center than at ends, causing overflow to take place at weakest point. About 300 feet of the center of the dam is gone. Its destruction took about half an hour from time serious overflow began."

We have italicized lines in the above dispatch which, when taken in connection with Mr. Brendlinger's account before the American Society of Civil Engineers, published on another page, of the manner in which the old break was being filled up, accounts for the rapid destruction of the dam, and renders it probable that the suggestion made at the meeting of the Society, that it was this new part which was carried away, was correct.

It seemed improbable that the engineers of the State of Pennsylvania should have been guilty of negligence in building so important a structure, and our dispatch shows that what is left of the dam is well built—their part of the work. For the height, however, at which the dam was left, or to which it had settled during nearly 50 years, the spill-way was inadequate. And though the dam failed from the erosion of its face, and not from the pressure of the water, some one has an awful responsibility for not having made sure that the spill-way was of ample dimensions for any possible flood, and that the crest of an earthen dam holding such a large quantity of water, above a populous valley, was not entirely free from any danger of overflow.

This should, and undoubtedly will, be made a matter of judicial investigation, and it is to be hoped that the parties who are responsible, either through merely ignorant negligence, or through a possible culpable disregard of warnings received, will be held accountable, as far as is possible, for the damage occasioned by the failure to take such precautions as were demanded by the situation. And this demand for an accounting should proceed so far that persons owning, or being in any way responsible for dams, whose failure would cause either loss of property or loss of life, will see it directly to their comfort and interest to secure proper supervision of their design, construction and maintenance.

A Rather Serious Joke.

The fire engines turned out last evening about 7:30 o'clock in answer to a telephone alarm sent in from the corner of Fourth and Beaudry streets, caused by a brush fire on some vacant lots at that place. Some boys set fire to the brush, and then sent in the alarm, and when the engines arrived, some 30 or 40 youngsters were on hand to give the boys "the grand laugh." The case will be investigated, and if the perpetrators of the joke can be discovered, they will be made an example of.

The Police Commissioners.

The Police Commissioners will meet this afternoon, when it is expected that extensive changes will be made. The entire force is thoroughly worked up, especially the older men, as they do not know whether the new rule will be enforced against them or not. The commissioners are said to have made up the list of all those who did not vote at the last election, and that they will have to go. It was estimated last night that from 15 to 18 removals would be made.

Drunken Japs.

Last night about 11:30 o'clock Officer Whaling found a couple of Japanese hilariously drunk on Los Angeles street. As the heathens could not take care of themselves, they were brought to the police station, where they almost gave Clerk Cattle the lockjaw trying to pronounce their names, after which they were booked as John Doe and Richard Roe, and locked up for the night.

They Rise Up on End and Howl.

[San Bernardino Courier.]

. . . The Express [Los Angeles] is an excellent newspaper, and has invariably been generous in its treatment of San Bernardino. Many an appreciative article upon this county has appeared in its columns. The Courier might prolong its eulogy of the Express, but for fear that the Tribune and Herald would resent it as an injury to themselves. The seven-line courteous notice given by the Courier to that magnificent paper, the LOS ANGELES TIMES, the other day, apropos of its entering on a new volume, evoked such a storm of rage among the Los Angeles papers that the Courier has serious misgivings about the prudence of even this notice. The newspaper fellows down there must be an envious lot, or else must detest cordially THE TIMES for its preëminence.

THE WHEEL.

MORGAN AND HIS CORPS OF FEMALE RIDERS COMING.

The Young Ladies in Tights and Spangles Not Exactly Indorsed by the Wheelmen, but Come Just the Same—Notes of Local Events.

"Senator" W. J. Morgan, who is well known among the wheeling fraternity all over the world, writes from Omaha that he and the fair professional wheel women are coming to the Pacific Coast next month, and, of course, will visit Los Angeles. Wheelmen in this city are asking each other what they have ever done to the "Senator" that he should inflict them with this aggregation of "beauty on wheels." There are about a dozen "ladies" who have become professional long-distance bicycle riders, and for a year past they have run alleged races in every Eastern city. The contests can hardly be termed races, for they are rather more in line with spectacles. With beauties incased in silken tights, mounted on glittering wheels, is a spectacle which catches the fancy of the callow youth, whose mind seldom ever rises above cigarettes and a walking-cane. It is to be regretted that Los Angeles is to be invaded by this combination of beauty, limbs, tights, wheels, for it certainly won't elevate the recreation of wheeling. The wheel press and wheelmen the country over do not indorse these alleged races by women. But Morgan and his bicycliennes will probably come, and the wheelmen will have to grin and bear it.

The Los Angeles Wheelmen have more fast racers than any other similar organization on the coast. However, their supremacy in races does not stop here. The club is composed of considerable musical talent, and this was brought out at a "smoker" at the clubrooms last Saturday evening. The affair was an enjoyable success, and well attended, both by club members and the "great unattached." J. Phil Percival presided as chairman, and he made an excellent one. The musical programme opened with a guitar and mandolin duet by Messrs. E. P. and W. A. Woodworth, which was excellent. W. A. Woodworth is a fine player of the mandolin, and was formerly a member of the "Spanish Students," the musical organization which made such a reputation in this country a few years ago. D. L. Burke made a hit in a song and dance. J. M. Davies of the Express sang very nicely "Swinging in the Barn." Montgomery Mather of Life gave "Hamlet's" instructions to the players and the soliloquy, and also "Othello's Apology." A. J. Carey and N. R. Bradley played a medley on guitars very nicely. Mr. E. C. Bickford rendered a vocal solo in a captivating manner. Frank R. Ladell, an accomplished pianist, played an instrumental solo. F. E. Olds, the club bugler, played a cornet solo, N. R. Bradley and H. W. Hiller sang "Life's Dreams Are Over" in excellent voice. A. W. Little and W. S. Wing gave a wrestling match, the latter winning the bout. Messrs. J. Phil Percival and Frank Ladell gave a clever exhibition of sparring.

The regular programme being over, the visitors were called on to entertain the assembly, and all who refused were fined. Fines were imposed for the most trivial offense. If a gentleman sang he as well he was fined. During the evening fine cigars were smoked and a light punch served. The entertainment did not terminate till a late hour, and all who attended were gratified with the Los Angeles Wheelmen's ability to entertain.

A wheelman was seen last week coasting the Temple-street hill with an umbrella in one hand and a copy of THE TIMES in the other which he was reading.

Fred Corey returned Wednesday evening from a short trip to Tucson, Ariz. He states that wheeling in and around the Desert City is very good.

Messrs. J. Phil Percival and J. F. Plank toured to Pomona last week. The roads as far as Monrovia were good.

The club run next Sunday is to Monrovia.

The girl rode on the safety bike,
She was "upon her muscle;"
She would have gone as fast again
If unfettered by her—umbrella.

A Hollister youth tried to run down a jack rabbit with his bicycle recently. The result was that the wheel went to pieces, the owner had his arm dislocated, and the jack rabbit is still in training.

The Black River Railroad, which runs from Utica, N. Y., to Alexandria Bay, does not send out Sunday trains, so the proprietors of the Utica Tribune send out their Sunday edition as far as Boonville—40 miles—by bicycle. This is either enterprise, or else the edition is very small.

There is a bicycle club in an eastern city called the Romeo Club. The members are a romantic lot of fellows. Their favorite time for riding is at night, when the bullfrogs twitter, the egg plant begins to lay, the stars twinkle, and the coy young moon casts soft rays o'er the landscape. Each rider carries a mandolin, and is proficient in the use of the same, and can sing all the tender serenades of the sixteenth century. It is imperative that each member should possess a Juliet, and a strong movement is on foot requiring long hair and love locks.

Stole a Buggy Robe.

Last night about 8 o'clock a man named James Cavanaugh, alias James Campbell, stole a buggy robe from a buggy in front of the Vienna Buffet, and shortly after was caught trying to sell the article for 25 cents at the corner of Walters and Upper Main streets. He was taken in by Officer Harvey, and locked up on a charge of petty larceny.

A QUAKER'S DOZEN.

Richard Stege, the well known proprietor of the Quaker Dairy, No. 30 Ellis St., San Francisco, last week sent the following letter to The Edwin W. Joy Co.

"My family have been taking Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla now for months with splendid results. Our experience has been that after taking it regularly for a short time and getting the system started right, an occasional dose thereafter keeps the system in perfect condition. A peculiarity of your vegetable compound inexplicable to me is, that it does not lose its effect, but seems to accomplish the same results continually. As a liver and bowel regulator and corrective it is perfection. We would not be without it in our house. In fact I have just bought a dozen bottles to get the reduced price."

A. M. Rowe, of 523 Jones street, S. F., also writes that it has been his habit for years to awake in the mornings with a headache and an exhausted feeling; but since the first bottle he has had no return.

BARGAIN SALE OF PARASOLS!

Ever Witnessed in the City.

This sale will continue until June 22, giving the out of town people a chance to attend this sale. Our present prices are as low as the very lowest, quality considered; but this week we propose to break the lowest record by placing our mammoth stock upon the market at a 20 per cent discount, which means one-fifth (1-5) off our regular prices. During this week nothing reserved in this stock. All new styles and no auction trash.

We have never made a business of making discount sales, but having from 700 to 900 styles it is impossible to describe them as well as publish the seven to nine hundred prices. We mean to make our prices through this entire stock uniformly low, so we adopt this discount sale. Never has there been as fresh and clean a stock of Parasols offered in Los Angeles at a sale or at as low prices since its history as a city as now. If you don't attend this sale you will surely regret it. By extremely low prices we not only boom this department but the entire house.

We are still ahead, and intend not only to keep prices down on good dry goods, but also to give the poor a chance to buy high-grade goods as well as the rich. We have always contended for a genuine article, genuine bargains and genuine treatment. Our aim in this sale is to double our business and to make our profits on the aggregate.

We never have and never will buy auction goods, believing them high at any price. It gives us great pleasure to be able to offer the great thinking people of Southern California so choice, so genuine a stock of Parasols. As we wish to emphasize, NO TRASH, NO AUCTION GOODS, will you come and look?

PASADENA NEWS.

PREPARATIONS FOR REST IN ORDER.

The Liquor Question—In the Courts—Here and There—Round About Town—Local Mention—Personal Gossip.

PASADENA, June 18.—[Correspondence of THE TIMES.] Excitement in the liquor cases has boiled down considerably during the past few days, and with the exception of one case of interest on hand, there is little discussion heard on the streets. The "spotters" are, however, at work, and this afternoon paid their regular visit to the courtroom. It is now safe to say there is but two places in the city where liquor is being sold, but the dealers have been so thoroughly posted that it is unlikely any arrests will follow. On Thursday the charge against S. Rosenberger will come up for trial, and, as a jury has been asked, a lively time is anticipated. The bills prepared by Case for his services as a special detective are being eagerly watched for, and, if passed and ordered paid, there will be abundance of room for comment.

The Star this evening draws a striking contrast between the informer and Judas, who betrayed the Lord. Mr. Case claims he is in a legitimate business, and, although his conscience may be pricked, he is still in the field for "glory" and wealth.

COURT NOTES.

Two boys scarcely out of their teens graced the docket this morning. They are accused of stealing fruit.

A sextette of youthful gunny-sack hunters were before the bar of justice this afternoon. This is the second section, and the boys will be dismissed with a reprimand.

The defense began taking testimony in the Banta will case this afternoon. As there are about fifty witnesses, the Court will have its hands full during the remainder of the week. The separation deed given by the deceased to his wife was read by the counsel for the defendant, this morning, the reading of it creating a decided sensation.

Judge Hester and William A. Gibbs will argue the sides for their respective clients in the case of the city vs. Rosenberger on Thursday afternoon.

HERE AND THERE.

City Attorney Polley was absent in Los Angeles yesterday, where he has been called to defend the injunction suits pending against the sewer construction.

William Perman and Miss Addie Reynolds stole a march on their numerous friends yesterday, and went down to Los Angeles where they were quietly married. The honeymoon is at Santa Monica.

A pocket-book containing nearly $20 was found on a passenger train yesterday. Owner can get information by calling on the correspondent at the TIMES branch office on East Colorado street.

ROUND ABOUT TOWN.

Julius Fritz has resigned his position at the steam laundry and removed to Los Angeles. On Saturday Mr. Fritz will start on a trip to the northern country.

E. H. Lockwood of South Pasadena [illegible] favorably mentioned as a worthy successor to Prof. William Hammond, lately resigned School Trustee in that suburb.

Officer Robbins, one of the most efficient men on the police force, has gone back to day duty.

The Marengo-avenue Chautauqua Circle held its final meeting last evening, closing for the summer. The annual picnic will be held shortly.

LOCAL FOUNTAIN.

A private meeting of leading citizens was held this afternoon to discuss a project of a local nature.

Pasadena Lodge, No. 324, of Odd Fellows, is preparing for a lively debate among its members on Thursday evening.

A bunch of keys was found on the streets this morning. Owner can find the same at the TIMES branch office.

The Park Nursery Company has vacated its place on East Colorado street. There is a good opening in that particular location for a first-class ice cream garden, root beer on tap, etc.

A movement should be inaugurated to give the clerks a half holiday on Saturdays. The banks have not as yet taken action in the matter.

A congregational meeting of the members of the First Presbyterian Church will take place tomorrow evening, when a unanimous call will be extended to Rev. William Ormiston, D.D., of New York city, to fill the existing vacancy in the pastorate.

The nuptials of Miss Wilson and George Ingham are announced to take place tomorrow evening.

PERSONALS.

George Ingham of Placerville is in town.

Ed Watson leaves tomorrow for a sojourn at Santa Monica.

Charles Dillman and a party of friends made the ascent of Mt. Wilson today.

Mrs. Frank Amlar of North Ontario has moved to this city, and is registered at the St. Nicholas.

The Building Inspector.

The appointment of O. J. Muchmore to be Building Inspector was discussed to some extent on the streets yesterday, and while it was a surprise to most people, those who knew the gentleman were unanimous in the opinion that the selection is a good one. Mayor Hazard, when asked about the appointment, said that it was made purely on business principles; that he had inquired of a great many people as to the qualifications of the various candidates, and all had agreed that Muchmore was a most capable man. He would only say that he did not owe his appointment to any ring or combination, but that it was on the ground of efficiency alone. He believed that he was a thoroughly capable man and an honest one, and would give the people good service.

Has Lauterio Skipped?

It was reported on the streets yesterday among the acquaintances of Frank Lauterio, the Deputy Auditor recently indicted by the Grand Jury, that he had left for parts unknown, which opinion also prevailed in the vicinity of the Sheriff's office. The last seen of Lauterio was Monday afternoon about 2 o'clock, when he was spoken to on the road near Pasadena. He was in a buggy and had a lady with him. His friends insist that he has merely gone out into the country for a few days, as he did not care to stay about the city after his disgrace had become public. Lauterio is under $3500 bonds, with José Mascarel as one of the sureties, so that in case he does not come back the county is amply protected.

Exercises of the College of Liberal Arts.

The sixth annual commencement exercises of the College of Liberal Arts of the University of Southern California will begin Friday evening and run through until Thursday of next week. The exercises will be distribued as follows:

Friday, at 8 p.m., anniversary of the Aristotelian Literary Society,

Saturday, at 8 p.m., anniversary of the Athena Literary Society.

Sunday, the baccalaureate exercises, the baccalaureate sermon by President M. M. Bovard and the annual college sermon by Rev. W. A. Wright.

Monday, annual meeting of the board of directors at 2 p.m. and concert by the College of Music at 8 p.m.

Tuesday is University day. The University Council will meet in the afternoon, and at night there will be a reception to the council by President and Mrs. Bovard, at their residence.

Wednesday is Alumnus day, and there will be the anniversary of the Irving Literary Society at 8 p.m.

Thursday the annual commencement exercises and prize contest of the Senior class will take place at 10:30 a.m., and the dean's reception at 8 p.m.

The meeting of the council on Tuesday will bring together the officers and faculties of the different colleges and their patrons. The attendance will be large, over 100 members of the council having already signified their intention of being present. The programme for the afternoon, beginning at 2 o'clock, is as follows:

Invocation—H. Cox, D.D.
Address—President R. M. Widney LL.D.,
Music, Sonata, C sharp minor (Beethoven)—Mrs. Sadie E. Coe.
Annual address—Rev. R. S. Cantine, D.D.
Music, vocal, "The Wanderer" (Schubert)—Mrs. Leila A. Breed.
Ten-minute addresses by Revs. J. W. Van Cleve, E. S. Chase, T. C. Warner.
Music, piano solo, "Rhapsodie Espagnole" (Franz Liszt)—Prof. William Piutti.
Address—President M. M. Bovard.
Addresses by the Deans of the Colleges—Rev. W. S. Matthew, liberal arts; J. P. Widney, M.D., medicine; Rev. R. S. Maclay, theology, and Prof. W. T. Randall, agriculture.

An awkward mistake was made in yesterday's issue, it being announced that the reception to be given by President Bovard was to take place last night, instead of next Tuesday night.

UNIVERSITY PLACE.

Social Events — Personals — Other Items.

UNIVERSITY PLACE, June 17.—[Correspondence of THE TIMES.] Both the secret society receptions held during the week are voted by all who were fortunate enough to be present as great successes. That of the Sigma Chi Fraternity was held at the College of Music building on Tuesday evening. The stairway and reception hall were beautifully decorated, prominent among the floral pieces being a basket of many-colored nasturtiums presented by the Kappa Alpha Theta Society. The guests of the evening included members of the faculty, resident alumni of Sigma Chi, the members of the two ladies' fraternities and other students. The music by the orchestra, the collation and all the arrangements for the reception were creditable to the new fraternity.

The Gamma Delta reception was held at the residence of Mr. Hunt on Saturday evening. The house was brilliantly illuminated, the orchestral music was excellent, and the numerous guests enjoyed to the full a brilliant occasion. The supper room was brightly lighted with candles placed on all the tables, and each guest was presented with a golden anchor decorated with the colors of the society. These two receptions have worthily introduced the anniversary festivities.

It is now definitely decided that the Rev. T. C. Warner D.D., pastor of University Church is to remove soon to Chattanooga, where he has received an appointment to the United States Custom House. Dr. Warner's friends hope that this change of occupation will prove so beneficial to his health that he will be able to resume the work of the pastorate after a time.

Mr. Joseph Knowland of Alameda is visiting his sister, Mrs. Coe.

The first number of the students' annual, "The Sibyl," will probably be out this week. The Juniors have been rather secret regarding its contents; but it is expected to hit off faculty and students after the usual manner of such publications. It will contain portraits of President Bovard and Dean Matthew. "The Year Book of the University" is expected to be out by commencement.

Cannot Wesley avenue be sprinkled during commencement week?

Fight at the Depot of the Santa Monica Line.

There was a general scattering of females of all ages and forms at the Santa Monica depot, near the Sisters' Hospital, yesterday afternoon, just before the train pulled out. It seams that a couple of burly looking fellows got into a dispute over some trifling matter when one of them drew off and knocked the other down. The chap who went to earth was not much hurt, however, and, quicker than a flash, he was again on his feet. A howl that could be heard several blocks went up from a score of women who were standing near by, and when the men lit into each other as if they intended to do murder, the frightened women folks ran in all directions.

There happened to be no officer in sight, and the men fought until they both fell to the ground exhausted. As soon as the frightened women learned that the fight was over, they returned to the waiting-room and boarded the train. The fighters pulled themselves together as best they could, and made their way into separate cars. The train left before an officer could reach the depot, and no arrests were made.

Who the men are or what they were fighting about no one seemed to know.

The Times Annual Trade Number.

Now Ready, and for sale by Carriers, Newsboys, News Agents, and at the Counter.

ANNUAL TRADE NUMBER,

—CONTAINING—

A COMPLETE RLVIEW OF THE YEAR.

Fifty-six Large Pages. Equivalent to a Two Hundred Page Book.

The Annual Trade Number of THE TIMES, now ready, is the most complete and interesting publication of that character ever published in Los Angeles.

NOTABLE FEATURES—It contains a business review of the year, embracing a great mass of valuable facts bearing on the city and county; a thorough exposition of our natural resources—mineral, vegetable, commercial and climatic; a review of the rise and progress of the boom, with solid proofs that the country is now in better condition than it was during the height of the real-estate excitement; a carefully compiled exposition of the varied inducements which Southern California offers to the health-seeker, the home-seeker and the tourist, besides a number of interesting and valuable special articles on pertinent subjects. It contains more solid information about the country than could be crowded into the compass of a hundred long letters, and for a few cents and the expenditure of a few minutes' time in writing the address you can send a friend more information than you could write in a month, even if you had all the facts at hand. For a dollar you can supply ten families in the frozen East with information that may lead them to join the army of pilgrims to Southern California, to their own and this country's advantage. Thus, whether viewed from the standpoint of friendship or self-interest, it will be seen that no better use can be made of a dollar than by purchasing the rewith ten copies of the great Annual Trade Number of THE TIMES. Not one-tenth of the pleasure can be bestowed in any other way for the same amount of money.

RETIRING

FROM BUSINESS.

I would respectfully announce to the citizens of Los Angeles that, owing to a large increase in the rent of my store premises, it will not justify me to remain longer in the cigar and tobacco business at my old stand.

Therefore, please observe and take advantage of the fact that

FOR THE NEXT THIRTY DAYS

I will make a great reduction on former prices.

Imported and Key West Cigars, 10c each; former price, two for 25c.

Imported Cigars, heretofore sold three for 50c, can now be had two for 25c; and those sold for 25c can now be had for 20c.

My best brands of nickel cigars, six for 25c. Star, Climax and Horseshoe Tobacco, 45c per pound; P ncher do, for 40c per pound.

Leading brands of nickel Cigarettes, six packages for 25c; two 10c pages for 15c, and 20c packages for 15c. Still greater reductions made when sold by the box or quantity.

Meerschaum Pipes and Cigar Holders will be sold at cost. All other goods in proportion. Still greater inducements will be offered to the trade and in quantities.

As I will surrender possession of my store on the 30th day of June, you will please call early and secure a bargain.

I thank my friends and customers for the patronage heretofore bestowed upon me, and trust that at some future date I may be able to serve you again.

PEOPLE'S STORE.

Daily Bulletin of the Leading Dry Goods House.

LOS ANGELES, June 19, 1889.

A THING OR TWO YOU SHOULD KNOW.

There is hardly a day passes but we hear customers exclaim that "being strangers, we did not know that such a vast emporium as the People's Store was established in this town." We are even told that in size, system and similarity we are up to any store in the United States. As for price we claim to sell wares and merchandise cheaper right here in Los Angeles than the same grade can be bought for in Chicago, Boston or New York. One thing is certain, we have kept the exorbitant prices that were formerly charged down to the proper level. No combines, no threats, no boycotting efforts of our competitors, and more especially of the short-sighted clothiers can alter our fixed plans. Low prices, best grades, honest values, one price, no credit—has placed us where we belong—at the head of the mercantile ranks in this or any other city.

We claim we can sell clothing with a living profit upon a basis of 5 per cent. above landed cost. The above are samples of what the musical 5 per cent. grinds forth. We are going to do the largest clothing business in town, and 5 per cent. we claim will bring forward the desired result.

We could not part with our wares at the magical 5 per cent. advance if we were selling goods on credit, but spot cash on deliverydoes the work every time. Clothiers take our advice, try the 5 per cent. plan and your now empty stores will be filled as ours is, with eager purchasers.

DISEASES OF THE LUNGS.

We have introduced the compound oxygen treatment with our systems of practice in the cure of Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Dyspepsia, Insomnia, Sore Throat, Catarrh, Rheumatism and Nervous Prostration, while only the most improved methods are employed in all female complaints.

As is well known, Oxygen is the life-giving principle in the air we breathe, and Ozone in the air imparts that happy and buoyant feeling after thunder storms. Persons often require more oxygen than is in the air around them, and cause doors and windows to be opened, tear off collars, loosen the waist, and call for a fan to displace the stifling and bring fresher air or more oxygen. Traveling is done mainly to resorts where the air contains more oxygen, and mountains are ascended to breathe the Ozone, which is light and ascends from the earth.

Oxygen and Ozone are gases, and must be stored up and used by inhaling them. Our apparatus for storing and having these gases compounded with other suitable agents is perfect, and though they are not a cure-all, yet they are undoubtedly the greatest invention made in the last twenty years in any department of medicine, and the results are truly wonderful.

Oxygen acts by purifying the blood. Thereby increases the circulation, promotes absorption, improves digestion and assimilation, increases the capability of the lungs, and acts as a gentle stimulant to the nervous system.

The London, Eng., Lancet, very truthfully says: "The compound oxygen treatment is the greatest discovery of the nineteenth century." Clergymen, Statesmen, Lawyers, Doctors and all classes indiscriminately, wherever it is introduced, both use and recommend it.

The testimonials given below are very fair samples as to the time required for effecting cures in these troublesome cases:

Dr. Williams—DEAR SIR: I am happy to say that the cure you effected in me for a severe case of throat disease has proved to be permanent. For over a year I was troubled with post-nasal catarrh and granulated throat disease, and had done so much for it that I had put little hopes of ever being cured, when I first went to you, but you gave me such positive assurance that you could cure me that I began your treatment, and in four months from that time you discharged me and cured, and I am happy to say the cure was a permanent thing in every particular up to the present time, which is now over a year. Yours very truly. MRS. LUCY R. TRASK,

809 South Olive street, Los Angeles, Cal.

Dr. M. Hilton Williams—DEAR SIR: I have been contemplating for some time past making a statement of my case and the benefit I have derived from your treatment, remembering how glad I would have been could I have seen something of the kind from a person in the city, to whom I could have referred, when I first came to Los Angeles from my home in New York State.

I had been suffering for several years with what various physicians in the East pronounced "chronic ulcerated laryngitis." I spent considerable time at the Clifton Sanitarium, and employed the best medical skill I could find, all without any permanent benefit, and as a last resort our family physician recommended Los Angeles. For a time I improved, and then I began to go backward and all my former symptoms returned.

Through a medical friend I was induced to try your treatment. I became very much discouraged at times, but persevered, as I felt almost desperate and knew of nothing else to turn to. My throat trouble being aggravated by a serious stomach difficulty, made it very obstinate to deal with, but at last, after persevering for a time with your remedies, I consider I am permanently cured. If this will be of any value to you you are at perfect liberty to use it; also to refer any one to my mother, my husband or myself. Very truly yours,

MRS. J. D. WILEY,
Los Angeles, Cal.

Cheap Land -:- Good Land.

Dr. E. T. Barber of Lancaster, Antelope Valley, Los Angeles county, Cal., offers 30,000 acres of land for sale, in tracts of 20 acres and upward, at $8 to 50 per acre, with liberal terms and title guaranteed.

This valley has raised the premium wheat of the world; sugar beets at the rate of 213 tons to the acre; barley hay, three tons; eight crops of alfalfa in one year; parsnips seven inches in diameter, and is competent to compete with Spain for raisins, and France for champagne.

All this land offered can be covered with mountain water, and has good surface and artesian water, and much of it has a subsoil irrigation.

The railroad facilities are good: the Southern Pacific Railroad now crosses it, and three other great railroads are expected to do so in the near future.

Climate good—no cyclones, blizzards, fogs or malaria.

Antelope Valley is the hope of the poor, a boon to men of moderate means, and a bonanza to keen-sighted business men.

Mr. Milton Thomas and Mr. R. M. Town of this city, and Mr. Byron O.
